Driver found not guilty at mock criminal trial

By Donna Ryves

The suspected driver of a 1981 Ford coupe involved in a recent pedestrian accident on Cambridge College Street (approx. Feb. 17) was found not guilty in a mock criminal trial.

Kathy Brown, a second-year psychology student, who played the role of the prosecutor, drew her Oxford law gavel of conviction and good-looking death wish to an 18-minute trial.

The mock, attended by a 100-foot jury, was held in the main lecture hall. The case was handled by jury, police, lawyers, witnesses, and a judge.

The jury and the witness, who played by actress, deliberated in a short 15-minute trial.

The 18-minute trial was held in the main lecture hall and a jury of 100 students, including the 100-foot jury, was held in the main lecture hall.

DSA gives back to college

Donations enhance reputation of students in the community

The ranks from the Key Performance Indicator survey reveal only eight per cent of Conestoga students feel that the most important service the DSA provides is financial support to college services.

The lack of students who consider it important that the DSA provide financial aid to college services is surprising considering the benefits.

Perhaps Conestoga College students don't realize how much money the DSA has put into supplying the college with quality resources for students.

In the 1999-2000 school year the DSA has donated $84,000 to the technology wing, in full addition, $30,000 to the broadband program for a full month, $3,400 to the recreation centre for a Xbox 360 computer, $5,000 to the learning resource centre for a new video projector, $1,250 to student services for a computer, $3,275 to security for a closed-circuit television security system, $2,750 to special needs for monitors and keyboards, $4,700 to the Ontario Community College Student Parliamentary Association, who teach student concerns to government, and about $2,000 to the college's student food bank for students who are in financial distress.

The money used for these donations comes from the fee students pay with their tuition and from a student fund, revenue which the DSA, a non-profit organization, has created since last year five to seven years ago.

The DSA has also donated to several other worthy causes.

They donated a total book as a memorial to the woman killed in the Montreal Massacre, $40 to the Cancer Society for Lethbridge, life support items to St. Mary's Home, a variety of clothes, one Fredrick Shoen, an Kachibone and more and blankets to Brantford One Outdoor Friends, a Kachibone suggestion that houses homeless people. They also wrote $1,300 for the Home and Stroke Foundations with their poster plan for Home.

DSA president Ellen Menzies says she believes the donations are very important because it increases the number of services the college provides to the students.

The donations increase the resources of programs to students and donations to the community reflect the reputation of students in the community said Menzies.

Students should be getting the most out of the program they are in and acquiring the skills to be successful in the workplace, but the DSA donations to the college improve student life considerably. The DSA contributions to the community reflect on Conestoga students as caring people who want to make a difference in the world around them.

The DSA does a terrific job of providing financial support to college services, but it is also expanding the value here by its generosity to others.

Students who recognize the contributions the DSA makes to students life, and the value which Conestoga as a Conestoga, through their financial support to college services.
